

TENURE TRACK FACULTY - Security Studies

Rank: Assistant Professor

Disciplines: International Relations

Subfield: Conflict Processes, Foreign Policy, International Security

Application Deadline: January 31st, 2018

Start Date: September 1st, 2018

Salary: Competitive

IE University's School of International Relations at (IESIR) seeks qualified applicants for a tenure track assistant professor position in Security Studies. The successful candidate will have a strong publication record of monographs and top-tier international peer reviewed articles, or the proven potential of producing them in the coming two years. We are especially, though not exclusively, interested in candidates with knowledge of the latest developments in security innovation with a focus on new weapons systems, artificial intelligence, and cybersecurity.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach undergraduate and Masters level courses in International Relations Theory, Global Governance, and Peace and Conflict Resolution, and Globalization. Furthermore, they should show acumen for innovative and applied teaching methods, with a focus on critical thinking and problem solving.

Beyond these traditional academic criteria, we seek academics with the capacity to engage in meaningful and policy relevant work, and to participate in contemporary policy debates. As well, we seek faculty members to be institution-builders: to apply for research grants, participate in affiliated research centers and academic programs, and expand IE's current partnerships.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, 1-2 current research papers (including the job-market paper), three academic references, a statement of teaching philosophy, and evidence of teaching excellence (e.g., teaching evaluations). A PhD degree from a recognized department of Political Science, Public Policy, or International Relations is required. Entry-level ABD candidates must demonstrate clear evidence that the PhD will be complete by July, 2018. Send applications with the subheading Security Studies to IESIR4@ie.edu

The IESIR is part of IE University and the IE Business School, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain; and is a full-member of the Association of Professional Schools in International Affairs (APSIA). We are committed to world-class professional education and academic research in international affairs, public policy, and the social sciences. As well, we are committed to becoming a global leader in research and training relating to the governance of emerging technologies.

We offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and students body are highly diverse and international. IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer, and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the ethnic and gender diversity of our faculty.
