

FREELANCE & REMOTE JOB PLATFORMS

Click on the logo to go directly to each platform.

MeetFrank.

MeetFrank is a mobile app. Headquartered in Estonia it offers a wide range of job opportunities with European-based companies. The app has high ratings, 4.3 on Google Play and 4.7 on the App Store.

European freelance marketplace connecting businesses with independent professionals across tech, design, marketing, and consulting, offering tools for project management and secure collaboration.

Global online talent marketplace that connects businesses with skilled freelancers across various fields, including development, design, writing & marketing.

Online marketplace where freelancers offer services, called "gigs," across categories like design, writing, programming, and marketing, with secure transactions and easy client-freelancer collaboration.

While primarily focused on opportunities with USA-based companies, it offers a diverse range of remote job options for professionals at various seniority levels.

Promotes full-time remote opportunities across EMEA with some options worldwide. It also has some jobs that are not published on other platforms.

A curated remote job board featuring roles in tech, marketing, design, and customer support. Listings are reviewed before being published.

A remote job aggregator that collects listings from multiple job boards and company sites. Offers broad coverage with minimal curation.

Jobgether is a platform focused on Europe and emerging markets, providing a global reach. According to Jobgether the platform offers 73,000 remote jobs and attracts more than one million users monthly. The platform utilizes AI technology to curate job listings from various sources, making it easier for you to find relevant opportunities. I find the platforms' user-friendly interface and detailed filter options to be very handy.

Remote.co provides more opportunities around technical roles like developers, customer service reps, recruiters, or sales professionals, worldwide. While it offers a niche selection of opportunities, the filtering options are quite limited.

wellfound:

A platform connecting candidates with startups, providing transparency around salary, equity, and company stage. Particularly useful for those interested in early-stage or growth startups.

A job platform focused on startups and tech companies, mainly in Europe. Emphasizes company culture, transparency, and long-term fit, with detailed company profiles and salary insights.

WE WORK REMOTELY

A remote-only job board featuring roles in tech, design, marketing, and operations. All listings are fully remote and come from companies hiring globally.

A job board featuring roles at startups backed by the Y Combinator accelerator. Positions span many functions and are typically at early-stage companies.

A remote job platform focused on tech, marketing, design, and operations roles. Also offers newsletters and resources related to remote work.

A remote job board aggregating listings from companies worldwide, with a strong focus on tech roles. Offers a high volume of postings with simple filters and occasional salary data.

A job board showcasing roles at startups backed by the Techstars accelerator. Covers a wide range of industries and early-stage companies.

A freelance platform for creative and digital professionals. Commission-free and portfolio-driven, allowing freelancers to showcase work and set their own rates.

A subscription-based platform offering remote, freelance, and flexible jobs across many industries. Listings are manually screened to reduce scams and low-quality postings.

A curated remote job board with roles in marketing, operations, customer success, and tech. Focuses on remote-first and digital businesses.

A platform focused on tech companies, combining job listings with company profiles, salary data, and editorial content. Useful for exploring startup and tech ecosystems.